

Love And Respect Will Get You The Right Girl

After you take the time to find the girl of your dreams, and the dating that you have been doing turns into a serious relationship, it might be time to consider marriage. There are ways that you should act during the engagement and the actual wedding to make her know that you love and respect her.

Russian girls tend to grow up fast because of the economical and political situation in modern Russia. It often forces them to start working much earlier in life, as early as high school. They need to make money to live and help out their families. Many girls are underage when they start working as dancers or waitresses.

Working at the international travel industry may be another option for these girls in Russia. This will make them realize that money is never a problem and also that fun never comes to an end. This does not mean that they sell their bodies for a huge payment. You will also never presume that your date might be doing this. This is very important if you are looking for a Russian girl.

These girls are just looking for foreigners who respect them and the struggles that they have been through. Western society is full of ladies that are considered to be gold diggers. These women often cheat on you and basically laugh in your face as they take your money and your heart. Russian women are different though. They are loyal and polite, and they expect the same from you. After you have proven that you are with your Russian woman because of their personality and charm, rather than their looks, you might already be thinking about asking for her hand in marriage.

The modern Russian tradition states that the engagement should last as long as two weeks to one year before the marriage. The bridegroom should make sure that a romantic atmosphere is created for the proposal. An engagement ring will also have to be with the man until the right time comes to ask for her hand in marriage. It is not important to get the approval of the family unless the future bride thinks it is really necessary.

After you receive the "yes" you were hoping for, it is time to meet the whole family if you haven't done this as of yet. You will be expected to be respectful and modest. In Russia if you have a difference in age it will matter so even if you are educated, wealthy, and handsome, you may still encounter problems with the future in-laws. Make sure you do not show a high ego of yourself and be careful of what you say. Many Russians do understand some English although they may not be able to speak it as well. So, any thought that may not be as nice as you want it to be should remain in your head.

Local Russians are very hospitable and loving. Marriage is looked at as an extremely precious moment in the life of the bride and groom and wedding ceremonies are turned into huge events lasting 2 to 3 days. Be sure that you will meet with all the various family members including the grandparents, cousins, and Aunts that come from all around the country to share this happy moment with you.

No family member must be neglected they expect you to meet everyone. You must accept loads of kisses and hugs from unknown people, which is their way of showing that they approve of you and like you.

Don't worry though; your Russian bride will be right next to you, helping you along. If you have any questions regarding the rituals and customs, you should not be afraid to ask. You are not expected to know all the Russian traditions and customs, and she will be more than happy to explain them to you.

Last but not least, enjoy the moment. It will be something to cherish always.
